Russell Stewart, a handsome, white-haired newspaperman who is head of the Newspaper Division of Field Enterprises, told a luncheon meeting of industrial and civic leaders at the Surf Wednesday that Manistique Pulp & Paper Co. would start at once on a $2.5 million program of improvement and expansion at its mill. The company has been owned by Field Enterprises, publishers of the Chicago Daily News and Chicago Sun-Times, since 1960.

The announcement is the sort of thing that brings merger of Christmas and Fourth of July and great jubilation to any Upper Peninsula city. It couldn't happen to a nicer community than Manistique and it, like all our Peninsula cities, can use the benefits of the big investment as it works to shift its economy from the old forms that created the community to modern indus-

The work that will transform the Manistique paper mill into a modern, highly competitive unit with production capacity enlarged by 50 per cent will be so extensive that while it will start immediately, it will not be completed until 1965. But the benefits from the decision of directors of Field Enterprises to make the investment started immediately with the announcement of the construction program.

Manistique and the big area about the city that supplies the Manistique Pulp & Paper Co. with pulpwood and labor and other needs have a new feather for their civic headdress and a new nick on their gunstock of community pride and confidence. The long years of planning by President Frank Hoholik and his colleagues of Manistique Pulp & Paper Co. and of its parent concern, Field Enterprises, have brought forth a big facil-

Traffic Sabbath

Is beating a red traffic light a moral issue or just taking a sporting chance? Is that traffic ticket your friend got last week a call to better citizenship or an unmitigated annoyance? notion spread beyond its borders that Romney's novice political status, plus his focus on programs, is making Michigan a soft target for Sen. Barry Goldwater's eager delegate rustlers.

Goldwater's partisans, promoting him for president and Romney for re-election in 1964, have made marked early headway. But they are acting without the faintest hint of what the governor may decide to do. A high-ranking Republican says of the senator's supporters:

ANN ARBOR - Whatever else we have done, we seem to have communicated a sense of personal failure to many of our pupils, William C. Morse, University of Michigan professor of educational psychology claims. "In general, the longer we have them in school, the less favorable things seem to be," he says. "If we care about the pupil's self regard, we have much work to do."

For example, while 12 per cent of third graders tested did not indicate that they felt "pretty sure" of themselves, 34 per cent of the 11th graders made the same response. Also, 44 per cent of the 11th graders "often wish they were some-

In Northeast

By The Associated Press

Snow flurries and occasional rain dampened much of the Northeast today, although amounts were considerably less than Wednesday.

Precipitation was concentrated around the southern shores of the Great Lakes, in the Ohio Valley and in scattered areas of New York State and New England

Columbus, Ohio, reported an inch of snow on the ground. Other areas had lesser amounts. Extensive cloudy cover also was reported over much of the Northwest with light rains falling from northern California into Washington. Most of the central area and all of the Southeast had clear to partly cloudy weather.

Robustelli May Retire

end Andy Robustelli has played 103 consecutive games for the New York Giants. His target is 109—and then retirement.

Robustelli began his pro career with the Rams in 1951. Five years later, reluctant to be so far from his family in Stamford, Conn., he threatened to retire. The Rams then shipped him to the Giants.

Gates Locked GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)-

Green Bay Packer Coach Vince Lombardi locked the gates of City Stadium Wednesday and excluded newsmen as the defending National Football League champions continued workouts for Sunday's showdown with the Bears in Chicago.

Two city policemen were stationed at the stadium gates to insure that only members of the Packer family were admitted.

There were no reports on what the Packers did, but it was understood that all the players joined in the drill, including quarterback Bart Starr and offensive end Ron Kramer is geeting over knee and ankle injuries and Starr is recovering from a fractured hand. Starr's status is uncertain for Sunday's game when the Packers and Bears will set about cracking the tie for first place in the Western Division. The clubs have 8-1 records.

Peninsula Cage Teams Set For Great Campaign

Peninsula is on the eve of one of the greatest high school roundball campaigns in its history.

Throughout the region, it's apparent that more teams have more taller players and more capable veterans available for upcoming cage action than ever before

Several schools have their 1962-63 outfits virtually intact for another winter; a few coaches of such veteran lineups actually do an about-face and admit they're looking for "even better" seasons. No less than eight players tower five or six inches over six feet, while an unusually large number go 6-4 or 6-5, according to reports from more than 50 of the 73 schools which sponsor varsity basketball teams in the Peninsula.

The 1963-64 campaign, which gets under way with 20 games this Friday night, could rival even 1955-56 as far as scoring and other accomplishments are concerned.

That was the year when (1) Stephenson, Crystal Falls, Chassell and Trout Creek took U.P. and state championships: (2) Trout Creek scored 1905 points for the biggest team basket barrage ever; (3) Chassell began its 65-game winning streak; (4) Stephenson's Mel Peterson appeared on the scene to shatter one individual record after another, and (5) Alpha's John Kocinski ended a four-year scoring spree that wasn't topped until Trout Creek's Jim Manning came along.

Missing from the scene this season will be Bill Koski, last year's scoring champ who hit 609 points in leading Champion to 19 consecutive regular-season victories, the second straight year the Indians had gone unbeaten in scheduled competition. But back for at least one more winter are high scorers like Nahma's Brian (Pat) Groleau, polished 6-foot-5 cager who just missed gaining the point crown as a junior; Negaunee St. Paul's Dominic Jacobetti, who led the Emeralds all the way to the state Class D finals last spring; Trout Creek's Bob Manning and Bob Gale, who undoubtedly will score more than a combined 800 points; Hermansville's Ron Povolo, who could become a 30-point scorer even in his junior year; Wakefield's Terry Salmi, who could be just as valuable to the Cardinals in basketball as he was quarterbacking his football team to a 7-1 record this fall, and Marquette Graveraet's Bruce Forstrom, spark of the defending Class A champions.

Besides Marquette, Peninsula titles currently are held by Rudyard (Class B), Houghton (Class C) and St. Paul (Class D) All four champs could be even tougher in the new season.

Of more immediate interest, however, are the conference races. Titleholders include Escanaba in the Great Lakes, Niag-The feed will be held at the ara, Wis., in the Menominee Range, Ironwood in the Michigan-Pine Forest Lodge Wednesday, Wisconsin, Champion in the Mid-Peninsula, Hermansville in the Big Eight, Nahma in the Central U.P., Mass in the Porcu-A report on the Globetrotter pine Mountains, Ontonagon in the Copper Country and Brimley

Shelters Have Survival Food

Some new signs have appeared in Delta County in the past year, yellow and black signs on public buildings These buildings contained fallout shelters.

Each of these shelters has been inspected as to its "protection factor" or amount of protection the building offers against radiation from fallout. Most of those set up in the Upper Peninsula have a "protection factor" of 100. This means these shelters offer 100 times more protection from nuclear radiation than if you were out of doors. These shelter areas have also been rated as to how many people can be housed in them, and this, too, is listed on

Many of these shelters have been stocked with food rations. sanitation supplies, water containers and a limited amount of medical supplies and radiation measuring instruments The stored food is a grahamcracker-like biscuit. There are sufficient supplies of these biscuits to last for five days for each person up to the total shelter capacity. This can be extended to at least 10 days with smaller rations. One quart of water per person per day for 14 days is also furnished. The medical supplies are, for the most part, those which should be found in every home.

The goal of the government eventually is to have two spaces designated as acceptable fallout shelter spaces for every man, woman and child in the United States. It is estimated these shelters could save up to 50 to 60 million lives in an allout attack.
